Peterborough Community Health Centre (PCHC) is a brand-new dynamic community-based health centre, promoting social justice and health equity through a model of care that incorporates both western and traditional approaches. PCHC is one of several in our Province, providing primary health care and social and community outreach services with an emphasis on health promotion and illness prevention. With a mission to improve the lives of people who face barriers to physical, mental, spiritual and social well-being, PCHC incorporates the Indigenous way of life promoting good health through a life of balance and harmony.

Organizational Commitment

PCHC is committed to being a culturally safe, inclusive, and equity-driven organization that recognizes the inherent rights, knowledge systems, and contributions of Indigenous peoples. We understand that Indigenous ways of knowing, being, and healing are essential to the health and wellbeing of all communities, not only Indigenous clients. All staff share responsibility for embedding culturally appropriate and trauma-informed practices into every aspect of our work, guided by the principles of reconciliation, anti-racism, and respect for diverse worldviews.

Position overview:

The Cultural Wellness Coordinator plays a vital role in promoting health equity, cultural safety, and wellness initiatives for Indigenous communities. This position works in respectful partnership with Indigenous individuals, families, and communities to advance wellness, cultural safety, and equitable access to healthcare and services. Guided by Indigenous knowledge systems, community priorities, and the principles of self-determination, this role supports the co-creation of initiatives that celebrate strengths, address systemic barriers, and foster wholistic well-being.

Key Responsibilities:

- Support the integration of Indigenous knowledge systems, traditional healing, and land-based practices into wellness programs and initiatives.
- Work alongside Indigenous partners to identify community-defined wellness goals and priorities.
- Coordinate and support the Indigenous Advisory Circle, ensuring respectful engagement, culturally appropriate meeting protocols, and timely follow-up on recommendations.
- Develop resources and educational materials that promote Indigenous knowledge and wisdom of health and wellness.

Qualifications:

- Degree or diploma in Public Health, Indigenous Studies, Social Work, Health Promotion, or a related field or an equivalent combination of relevant education, training, and lived and/or professional experience.
- Experience working with local Indigenous communities and an understanding of traditional protocols.
- Knowledge of Indigenous health, traditional healing practices, and wellness frameworks.
- Lived experience as an Indigenous person is recognized as a valued form of expertise, contributing to culturally safe client relationships and to the organization's integration of Indigenous-informed approaches across all services.
- Knowledge of community resources, especially health and social services.
- Proficiency in computer use (Microsoft Office, EMR, Internet, and email).

Preference will be given to qualified Indigenous (First Nations, Inuit, Métis) candidates under the Ontario Human Rights Code, Section 24(1), and the organization's approved Special Program (Section 14) to address systemic barriers.

This role has been designated to support services for Indigenous communities in culturally grounded ways. Applicants who wish to self-identify as Indigenous are invited to do so in their cover letter or application.
